Winooski District Looking for Water Quality Success Stories on Farms

The Winooski Natural Resources Conservation District is seeking Vermont farmers who have implemented water quality protection measures on their farms. Practices implemented can include: buffer plantings, cover crops, manure composting, and nutrient management planning. Any farmer with examples of Best Management Practices in action on their farms and are interested in being featured as a success story in multi-media productions and publications are encouraged to contact the District.

The Winooski Natural Resources Conservation District is one of 14 conservation districts throughout Vermont. It encompasses all of Chittenden and Washington County as well as parts of Orange County (Orange, Williamstown and Washington). The district relies on grants and individual donations to complete its conservation work. The WNRCD focuses its resources on completing conservation projects within the areas of agricultural assistance, forestland enhancement, urban conservation and watershed stewardship.
